4. Selection Method

Doctoral Programs

A score of 60% (120 points) on the examination on the day (oral examination) is the minimum passing standard, and those with the highest scores are selected. The application documents (e.g., an academic transcript from your graduate school, a research proposal and a thesis) are taken into account as part of the oral examination assessment.

5. Examination Subjects, Times

Doctoral Program

Major	Examination methods	Examination time	Examination subject	Score allocation
Experimental and Applied Psychology	General exam	10:00* ¹ –	Oral examination • Interview focusing on future developments in a student’s own research task • The examination is designed to assess the applicant’s alignment with the graduate school’s admission policy.	200
Clinical and Developmental Psychology	International students exam	10:00* ¹ –	Oral examination • Interview focusing on future developments in a student’s own research task • The examination is designed to assess the applicant’s alignment with the graduate school’s admission policy.	200

*¹ The starting time for oral examinations may be changed to 09:00 depending on the number of examinees. The oral examination time is the overall start time, and the start time and finish time will differ for each examinee (Applicants will be notified when their examination admission cards are sent out.).

6. Assembly Points, Times for Day of Examination

Applicants for Doctoral Programs will be notified of the assembly point and time when their examination admission card is sent out.
